Incorporation of the Legion Congress may be credited with speedy action in passing the Wolcott-Johnson bill, officially incorporating the American Legion. The measure went through committee hearings and was passed by both houses during September. The President took time from the press of his tour of the country to read the important document. He affixed his signature while aboard his private car, at Horn brook, Cal.

That such months from the inception of the Legion in France is merely another indication of the new energy which the veterans of the 1917-18 are infusing into American life.

A dominant feature of the national charter is its emphatic determination against partisan politics. This stand is summed up in a phrase of unmistable language: "The organization shall be non-political and as an organization shall not promote the candidacy of any person seeking public office."

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS PLAN MUCH LARGER PROVISION FOR ALL THEIR INSTITUTIONS.

WILL AID RURAL SCHOOLS

Success of 75 Million Campaign Will Mean Strengthening of Educational Forces All Along the Line in Next Five Yea s.

Of the total sum sought in the Bap tist 75 Million Campaign, $20,000,000 will go to Christian education.

But the educational program of the Baptists will not stop there. It proposes to lend itself to the creation of a public sentiment that will result in more efficient public schools in the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention, especially in the rural districts. In this connection it is pointed out that 37 per cent of the total elementary scholastic population of the nation is found in the South; that the rural scholastic population of the South is 77 per cent of the whole; that only one-sixth as much money per capita is expended on the education of the children of the South as on the children of other sections of the country; that only 37 out of every 1,000 pupils in the South enter high school as against 87 from other sections; and only 10 from the South enter college as against 21 from other sections.

Distributed throughout the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention are 142 educational institutions, including academies, colleges, universities, seminaries, and missionary training schools for women. These have a total enrollment of 18,000 annually, but all of them are crowded, greatly in need of larger facilities in every way, and many of them must have an enowment if they are to meet the deunds made upon them. It is in supplying these needs that the $20,000,000 apportioned to Christian education will be expended.

To these institutions the denomination is looking for its trained leaders to help carry forward the work along every line contemplated in the $75,-000,000 campaign. In Texas alone there are 700 pastorless Baptist churches and probably the same proportion holds in the other states. It is hoped the campaign will call out 5,000 volunteers for ministerial and missionary work and these institutions will be asked to equip these young men and women for their work.

Last year, reports show, over 6,000 students in these institutions took voluntary courses in Bible and mission study; nearly 4,000 of them attended student prayer meetings; ministerial students pastoring churches raised more than $80,000 for church benevolences and fed more than 10,000 people to profess Christ. The campaign hopes to result in enrolling 35,000 young men n in Baptist schools within the next five years.

The South wide institutions that will benefit from the campaign include Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and Women's Training School at Louisville, Ky., Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary and Women's Training School at Fort Worth, Tex., Baptist Bible Institute, New Orleans, and Negro Theological Seminary at Nashville, while aid will be given to every Baptist institution of learning in all states of the convention territory, and to new Baptist colleges that will be established in Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Louisiana and New Mexico, along with one somewhere in the region of the Appalachian mountains yet to be defi-

For Catarrh and Catarrhal Conditions

The evidence of one man like Mr. Arendt is more convincing proof to you of the merits of Fe-ru-na than any written words of ours. For fifty years Pe-ru-na has been the standby of the American family for diseases due to catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the organs of the body. Thousands, like Mr. Arendt, have proved the effectiveness of Pe-ru-na for coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, stomach, bowel and liver, disorders or any disease characterized by a catarrhal condition. If your suffering is the result of a catarrhal disorder try Pe-ru-na. It is a true, tried medicine.

Caloric Quality is Your Protection

Over 50,000 homes in the United States heartily endorse Caloric quality. The owners know the merits of the Original Patented Eipeless Furnace. They have daily proof that it correctly applies Nature's own law of circulated heat, that it saves 35% of the fuel and that its Ironclad Guarantee of comfort and economy is always made good by its performance.

Caloric success is due to its principles of construction. The Caloric is especially designed for pipeless heating—the original. It is not a pipe furnace with a casing, nor is it a makeshift adapted to meet a new demand. The best efforts of scientifically trained engineers resulted years ago in this new type furnace, which has been refined and improved until it embodies those principles necessary to your satisfaction not found in imitations, because they are fully protected by patents. There is as much difference in pipeless furnaces as in horses—you can buy quality or you can get cheapness, which costs more in the long run.

Let Us Show You

the Caloric and explain its exclusive features. Then you will never be satisfied with any other and will know that it represents the most for the money. You will not make the mistake of a poor investment when you understand why the Caloric is so superior, why it stands alone in leadership in this field and why imitations cannot produce its satisfaction to users.

Nimble Wit and Tongue Landed Job for Owner

The Santa Fe Railroad company had been advertising in Eastern newspapers for brakemen. A big, ugly, raw-boned chap, who looked like a prize fighter, appeared before Fred C. Fox, general manager at Topeka, Kan., and applied for work.

"I see that you want some brakemen," said he. "I would like a job."

"We don't need any brakemen," replied Fox, after sizing up the fellow.

"Then you should take that ad out of the papers and quit fooling us," said the man. "I came all the way from Philadelphia in reply to your ad."

"Yes, we do need brakemen," confessed Fox, "but we don't want you."

1330000

"Why not?"

"I don't like your looks."
"So you hire a man on his looks, eh?"
"Yes."

"Well, who hired you?" asked the brakeman.

"I guess you will do," replied Fox with a laugh. "You can go to work this afternoon."

Hawaiian Sportsmen Risk Their Lives at Game:

Dead Horses Make Best Bait, and Sport Has Been Commercialized.

Honolulu.—Using the carcass of a horse for bait, a Honolulu sportsman went fishing recently in a powerboat and returned with a fish weighing 1,500 pounds and measuring almost 10 feet from tip to tip, the largest thank killed in Hawaiian waters for many years.

Shark fishing, or rather, hunting, as it is conducted in Hawaii, is a thrilling sport, not entirely lacking in ganger to the hunter.

In fact, a death battle with a harpooned shark, according to big-game funters, is about as safe as a midnight combat with a hungry tiger.

Sharks, in their death throes, have been known to attack the boat and with their powerful rows of serrated teeth rip great sections from the sides. The shark hunter first obtains a dead horse, and if it has been dead a week so much the better.

The powerboat tows the carcass outside the harbor and the hunt is on. Sharks, attracted by the odor of the bait, gather in large numbers and soon begin striking at the carcass, ripping huge chunks of flesh from it.

At this stage the hunter endeavors to work his boat near enough to permit a shot with the harpoon.

Once securely harpooned, a big shark will fight for hours before succumbing

Recently in Hawaii shark hunting has been placed on a commercial basis, and the development of a big industry is forecast.

Shark fins are deemed a great delicacy by orientals, and dried shark meat has found a ready market. The canning of shark meat is being

CHA-CHAS ARE POOR MIXERS

Marines Say Tribe in Virgin Islands
Plainly Indicate They Want to

Washington.—United States marines who have hobnobled with Filipino headhunters, and have long been friendly with the Chamorros of Guam, met their Waterloo when they tried to establish the entente cordiale with the Cha-Chas of the Virgin islands.

According to the marines the Cha-Chas are "poor mixers." They live on the west side of the harbor of Charlotte-Amalie, decline to mingle or intermarry with the negroes, and resent any outside interference with their affairs. They are the hardest drinkers and best workers on the island, their industry bringing them a good living as fishermen and weavers of straw hats. The tribe is said to have come originally from the Dutch and French Leeward islands.

So far the marines have taken only long distance observations of the Cha-Chas. For while the tribe is not hostile, its members plainly indicate that they want to be left alone.

FOSTER MOTHERS FOR MERCHANT MARINE BOYS

United States Shipping Board Takes Good Care of Those Who Enter Service.

The United States shipping board takes such good care of the boys who enter the merchant marine training service to become sailors, firemen or stewards on ships of the nation's great commerce fleet that it provides them even with foster mothers.

Any lad who is lonesome and has no folks to visit near the training station where he takes his first steps as a mariner finds sympathetic companionship at clubrooms maintained for his benefit by the social service bureau of the United States shipping board recruiting service.

Mature women who understand boy nature, through study of their own boys, are numbered among the volunteers who help carry on the welfare work for the merchant marine apprentices. Besides clubs, canteens, social halls, and hostess rooms are maintained for the use of the young merchant mariners.

Comforts, entertainment and on occasion friendly advice are provided by these women. On occasion the sewing on of a button for a young sailor who has not yet learned the full use of his "diddy box" equipment of needle and thread makes a friend of the new-fledged sailor.

The social service bureau is conducted entirely by women, under the direction of Mrs. Henry Howard, a Boston society leader. It looks out for the welfare of Jack, the merchant marine apprentice, from the time he arrives at the training station, to go on board a training ship, until he leaves it for deep sea voyages in a merchant vessel's crew.

Even after that the bureau follows the fortunes of the merchant sailor by keeping in touch with him through official channels, and also with his family, acting as a friend of both in case of misfortune to either.

Leaving the school of Our Lady of Loretto recently, Ernest will enter the Jesuit college in September on credits granted by the school and will plunge into a collegiate course.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lansing Burris, a first cousin of Secretary of State Robert Lansing, is the boy's grandmother. Although always remarkably studious, Ernest is athletic, rugged and strong.

The study of law has a great appeal for the boy and he delights in delving into civil cases. He will try to enter a law office when he finishes his college course. At three years of age Ernest showed a lively interest in newspapers and at three and a half years he was able to read.
